SAGE AND SULPHUR DARKENS GRAY HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Restore Color, Gloss and attractiveness.

Almost everyone knows that Sage and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

"TIZ" EASES TIRED, SORE, SWOLLEN FEET

Instant relief for aching, puffed-up, calloused feet and corns.

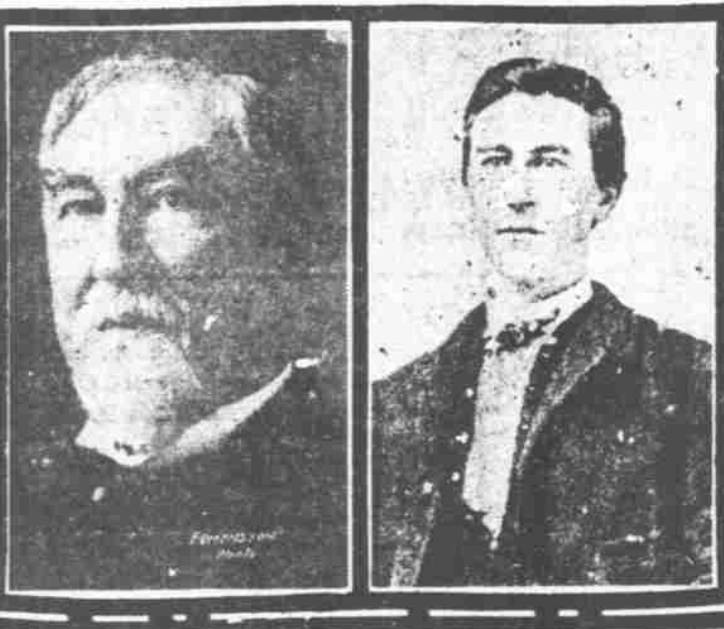

"Happy! Happy! Use 'TIZ'!"

Why go limping around with aching, puffed-up feet, feet so tired, chafed, sore and swollen you can hardly get your shoes on or off? Why don't you get a convenient box of "TIZ" from the drug store now and gladden your tortured feet?

"TIZ" makes your feet glow with comfort, takes down swellings and draws the soreness and misery right out of feet that chafe, smart and burn. "TIZ" instantly stops pain in corns, calluses and bunions. "TIZ" is glorious for tired, aching, sore feet. No more shoe tightness—no more foot troubles.

Today and Yesterday

These portraits are a part of a series appearing in The Times, showing well-known Washingtonians as they are now and as they appeared in younger days. Today's portraits are of NATHAN B. SCOTT.

Mr. Scott, who is president of the Continental Trust Company and formerly Senator from West Virginia, is seventy-six years old, and still going strong. He has been a resident of Washington for twenty years. When asked for these portraits, Mr. Scott said: "Here is a picture of a nineteen-year-old sergeant in the Union army during the civil war."

"BUCK" DYER FINDS MARINE CORPS IS "OUTFIT" FOR MEN

"There's no place in the marine corps for silver spoon bums," Stanley Dyer, better known to his friends as "Buck" Dyer, former newspaper man of Washington, now a private in the marine corps stationed at Parris Island in a letter to a friend, tells of the strenuous training given there.

"Most of the rest periods were given over to physical exercises, so I soon began to feel like John Willard," writes Dyer. "After each set of exercises there was a game, far different from 'postoffice.' For instance, one of them was called 'master of the ring,' played with two sides, 'Yank' and 'Hunk,' the object being to push, kick, or throw the Hunk outside the ring. It was my fate to be chosen as a 'Hunk,' and after the fight I left several inches of my hide on the field, not to mention 60-odd cuts and my penknife. Next time that game was played I horned in on the side of the Yanks.

"Our first battle practice was with bayonets. By Jinks! I'd hate to meet our instructor in 'No Man's Land.' He has about a dozen ways of killing a man. 'Don't leave any wounded,' was his introduction to the first drill. 'Make a good job of it; there ain't any use in stickin' a man twice. Put him away for keeps the first time. Don't look at him afterwards, neither, or somebody else will get you.' "There is much skirmish drill and battle practice, with scout and guard duty by night and day. The work is so interesting that a fellow forgets the fatigue until it almost overcomes him."

GALAXY OF STARS GATHERS $18,000 FOR RED CROSS

Never before was such a galaxy of stars assembled to act a play in Washington as that which presented "Out There" last night at the National Theater. It was an all-star performance by an all-star cast, and it added $18,156 to the war service fund of the Red Cross.

Miss Nora Bayes, who is appearing at the National Theater this week, put the climax on the evening's events when she outdid all Washingtonians for a program signed by the President, Mrs. Wilson, and the members of the all-star aggregation.

The foremost characters of the American stage were present and some of them played minor roles. George M. Cohan, James K. Hackett, O. P. Heggie, Chauncey Olcott, and George MacFarlane appeared as wounded soldiers in the second act in a hospital scene, in which Laurette Taylor was the center of attraction. Helen Ware, H. B. Warner, James T. Powers, Beryl Mercer, George Arliss and Julia Arthur were others whose names aided in attracting the tremendous crowd to the theater.

Mrs. Fluke appeared before the footlights for only a short time at the end of the play to deliver a tribute to the Red Cross organization. Mme. Eleonora de D'Amboise followed, her last night, and sang the national air of England, Italy, France, and the United States.

Age'd Author, Long In Venice, Hopes for End of Austrian Rule

William Dean Howells, the author, and former United States consul at Venice, has indicated a message of sympathy to the Italian people in which he says: "I've lived in Venice during the last four years of Austrian domination, and it is my old age's greatest grief to see the Austrians again near the lagoons."

"My most fervent hope is that I may live long enough to see them driven from Italy forever."

O'CONNOR PLEADS CAUSE OF IRELAND AT MEETING HERE

"Ireland is not opposed in principle to conscription. Ireland wants her men conscripted by an Irish Parliament, not by an English Parliament."

Declaring that other British colonies have exercised their own choice, whether they should furnish men by voluntary enlistment or by draft, T. P. O'Connor, M. P., and Irish Nationalist leader, spoke last night in the auditorium of the Interior Department. Members of Congress were present.

"Over 100,000 Irish boys lie dead in Gallipoli and Flanders. They thought they were fighting for the freedom of Ireland in fighting for the freedom of the world. The freedom of Ireland has not yet come," he said.

"I am inclined to believe that if conscription should be attempted the resistance would be passive rather than active; but it is impossible to guarantee that there will be no bloodshed."

Declaring that the leaders of the church and the law have pledged themselves to resist conscription, he begged that Ireland be not made to appear a slacker through resisting conscription.

RUSSIAN MUNITION SALES TO GERMANS ARE DOUBTED HERE

Officials today expressed doubt of reports brought to a Pacific port by returning travelers from Russia that munitions shipped from the United States, via Vladivostok, were being sold by Russian officials at Moscow to Germany. Latest official reports show that the enormous supplies of munitions which had been landed at Vladivostok were still there.

State Department advisers have reported that the Bolshevik authorities had directed that these supplies be sent westward, but that the orders have not been carried out. General Semenov and his forces were reported in the latest word reaching this city, to be ready to seize the trans-Siberian line and capture these supplies if they were moved from Vladivostok.

There has been a quantity of American supplies of all kinds in Moscow, and these may have been turned over to German interests. The quantity, however, is not believed to be large.
